MCCORMICK—State Sen. Vincent Sheheen (D-Kershaw) recently visited John de la Howe School. During the visit, which included a tour conducted by JDLHS President Danny Webb and other school officials, Sen. Sheheen asked how he might help the 219-year-old school as it seeks to redefine its mission. A member of the Senate's Education Committee, Sen. Sheheen also spent time talking with John de la Howe students. Here he looks over a classroom used in the school's Wilderness Program. Accompanying him on the visit was Grant Gibson of the State Budget Office.
